"OLD TIMES."

There's a beautiful song on the slumbers air
That drifts through the valley of dreams;
It comes from a cell where the roses were,
And a tuneful heart and bright brown hair.
That waved in the morning beams.

Soft eyes of azure and eyes of brown,
And snow-white foreheads are there;
A glimmering cross and a glittering crown,
A thorny bed and a couch of down,
Lost hopes and leaflets of prayer.

A breath of Spring in the breezy woods,
Sweet wafts from the quivering pines—
Blue violet eyes beneath green hoods,
A bubble of brooklets, a scent of buds,
Bird warbles and clambering vines.

A rosy wreath and a dimpled hand,
A ring and a slighted vow—
Three golden links of a broken band,
A tiny track in the snow white sand,
A tear and a sinless brow.

There's a tincture of grief in the beautiful song
That sobs on the slumbers air,
And loneliness felt in the festive throng,
Sinks down on the soul as it trembles along
From a time where the roses were.

We heard it first at the dawn of day,
And it mingled with matin chimes,
But years have distanced the beautiful lay
And its melody floweth from far away,
And we call it now Old Times.

The Doom of the Negro.

We copy the following sensible and timely remarks, on the above subject, from the Richmond (Virginia) Examiner and Enquirer:

None but the most depraved would urge a measure of retaliation merely for the sake of spite, and on the other hand, none but the most cowardly would hesitate to use the power of his arm for the protection of his person. And so it is when such occasions arise, mankind are compelled to obey the impulses of resentment, and employ the means which they suggest as mere measures of safety. The course of the negroes in this State in the late election arrayed as they were in solid phalanx against the interests, may the property, and even the lives, of the white people, presents the most irrefragable proof that their hostility to us is instinctive and eradicable. Nothing, therefore, remains for us to do but to meet the issue they have thus thrust upon us and defend ourselves like men.

We of Virginia have a great and glorious country, a Commonwealth unsurpassed in the advantages of soil, climate and production, a population unequalled in all the elements that overcome difficulties and make a community rich and prosperous. Shall we permit these things to be lost to us forever? Shall we tamely submit to the subversion of all our prosperity and the hopes of the future by a handful of artful knaves, who use the brute force of numbers to overcome our intelligence, talent, and worth, by outwitting us with a horde of ignorant and stupid negroes?

Fortunately, the means of our defence are not those of violence and bloodshed, but the mere regulation of our domestic arrangements. As history presents no parallel of the black ingratitude which has characterized our domestics and employes, in turning upon us and falling into the train of wretches who are unprincipled as a ostiate white men in most cases, and the most depraved of their own race in others, whose appeals were based alone upon implacable hostility to the whites, so we should present the only instance of a people submitting to death and destruction without an effort for safety, if we permit our patience to await our impending execution. The negroes have shown us that "blood is thicker than water" with them, and we can only accept the issue and treat them with defensive severity, differing not indeed from the spirit, but only in the measure, from the treatment which our English friends used towards the Sepoys of India when white society demanded British severity. As we have said, we need not use the means of violence and bloodshed as our defence, but only the simple remedy of confining our selections of domestics to those only who are friendly disposed to wards us, whether black or white. Let us give employment to, and thereby support, those only who are not arrayed against our peace and welfare. The test of this may be easily made by counting those who belong to the secret societies and vote the "Hunnicat ticket" as our avowed enemies, and those who do neither as our friends. Let us discharge the former and employ the latter. If there be not enough of the latter at present, the deficiency will soon be supplied by white domestics, and, in the meantime, it is infinitely better for us our wives and children, to perform domestic duties and endure the rearguard duty rather than continue to nurse a nest of serpents who have shown not only the poison of their fangs, but their readiness to use them.

From the Lexington Observer & Reporter.

In his late address before the society calling itself "The Army of the Tennessee," General Sherman uttered the following sentence:

"Look to the South, and you who went with me through that land can best say if they, too, have not been fearfully punished. Mourning in every household, desolation written in broad characters across the whole face of their country, cities in ashes, and fields laid waste, their commerce gone, their system of labor annihilated and destroyed. Ruin, poverty and distress everywhere, and now petulance adding the very cap-sheaf to their stack of misery; her proud men begging for pardon and appealing for permission to raise food for their children, her five millions of slaves free and their value lost to their former masters forever. How any Southern gentleman, with these facts, plain and palpable everywhere staring him in the face and recorded forever in the book of history, can still boast of his 'Lost Cause' or speak of it in language other than of shame and sorrow, passes my understanding, and instead of being revived, I know that their lost cause will sink deeper and deeper into infamy as time more keenly probes its hidden mysteries and reveals them to the light of day."

This insult to a foe, whose prowess he had often felt, whose homes he had destroyed and whose cities he had burnt, will only tarnish his laurels. How "these facts"—namely, desolation, cities in ashes, fields laid waste, commerce gone, ruin, poverty, distress—can cause shame in the sufferer we are at a loss to conceive. We can understand that the ruthless producer of these miseries, unless wholly heartless, might feel a deep and ineradicable blush of shame, forever mantling his face. "Infamy" is a word easily spoken. But he who utters it of Lee and Johnston and Hampton and their comrades among the living, and of Jackson and Johnston and Stuart and Ashby and the stainless heroes among the dead, but writes it in indelible characters across his own brow, where it will burn as enduringly as the mark of Cain. The cause to which such men gave their services and their lives is beyond the abuse of the burner of Atlanta, the desolator of Georgia, the sacker of Columbia. This General has given a new word to our language; "Shermanized" will remain at once a monument to his cruelty and an expressive description of savage ferocity in war.

We saw some of these "foot rints" of which mention was made. We saw burning houses, from which aged men, feeble women, and helpless children—sometimes sucklings—had been driven in their thin night garments out into a winter night. We have seen black smoke rising in numerous columns, witnesses to heaven of the ferocity of this commander and his followers. Rape and rapine, fire and sword, marked the track of his army. Age, sex, virtue, infancy, disease formed no protection—nay, only invited insults and outrages, which were without danger.

Jewelry was torn from bleeding ears or wrenched from weak fingers. Silver and gold, stolen by brave bummers, were at once the trophies and spoils of these victories over the weak and helpless. To-day, many a chimney and heap of ashes stand sentinel over the causeless cruelty of this commander, who talks of infamy.

When a full history of the war is written, when the dreadful nights of Columbia's sacking is fully revealed, then will history and posterity utter their judgment and award infamy to him, to whom it belongs. Before that tribunal we are willing that the "Lost Cause" and its followers shall be tried—before the same august tribunal we confidently arraign this commander.

A negro was so convinced of the lowliness of his race that he was indifferent as to a future state, believing that "they'll make niggers work even in Heaven." A clergyman tried to argue him out of his opinion by representing this not to be the case, as there was no work for him nor any one else to do. His answer was, "you go away, massa; I know better. If der'n order work for euhnd pusses up dar dey'll make em shud be clouds along!"

Southern barber shaved twelve men in twenty-five minutes and claims the tonsorial championship.

The Next Electoral College.

A correspondent requests us to give the States and their representation in the next Electoral College for the choice of President and Vice-president. The number of States will be twenty-seven. The Electoral votes are as follows:

| | |
|---------------|-----|
| California | 5 |
| Connecticut | 3 |
| Delaware | 3 |
| Kentucky | 11 |
| Maryland | 7 |
| New Jersey | 7 |
| New York | 33 |
| Pennsylvania | 26 |
| Illinois | 13 |
| Indiana | 13 |
| Iowa | 3 |
| Kansas | 3 |
| Maine | 7 |
| Massachusetts | 12 |
| Michigan | 8 |
| Minnesota | 4 |
| Missouri | 11 |
| Nevada | 3 |
| New Hampshire | 6 |
| Ohio | 21 |
| Oregon | 3 |
| Rhode Island | 4 |
| Tennessee | 10 |
| Vermont | 5 |
| West Virginia | 5 |
| Wisconsin | 8 |
| Nebraska | 3 |
| Total | 246 |

The recent elections have foreshadowed conclusively to our minds that at the Presidential election the Democracy will carry the States named as follows:

Maine, 7; Connecticut, 6; New Hampshire, 5; New York, 33; New Jersey, 7; Pennsylvania, 26; Delaware, 3; Maryland, 7; Kentucky, 11; Missouri, 11; Indiana, 13; Illinois, 13; Ohio, 21; California, 5; Oregon, 3; Nevada, 3; Wisconsin, 8—Total, 184.

The Radicals may receive a majority in all the following States, but we consider several as doubtful for them:

Iowa, 3; Kansas, 3; Massachusetts, 12; Michigan, 8; Minnesota, 4; Rhode Island, 4; Tennessee, 10; Vermont, 5; West Virginia, 5; Nebraska, 3—Total, 62.

According to this estimate the Democratic candidates will have a majority of 125 votes in the College.

"DEMOCRAT."—The Christmas Number of this unrivalled magazine is received, and is really a gem. Its engravings and stories are excellent, its "Christmas Dinner," which illustrated, looks good enough to eat, and is accompanied with proper receipts for cooking it.

We notice several additions, in this number, of interest to ladies. One of which is the enlargement of the already complete Fashion Department and of large page illustrations of bonnets, cloaks, and children's costumes. The pattern sheet is a very valuable one, being printed on both sides. A feature of the fashions is originality, and, therefore, of special value to American ladies, who want practical designs and information.

We sincerely think the best investment a man can make his wife, just now, would be a subscription to this useful and beautiful Monthly. It is even possible to obtain it for nothing, and a valuable present in addition, the particulars of which can be had by purchasing a number, or sending for a circular. Subscription price, $3 yearly. Address, W. Jennings Demorest, 473 Broadway, New York.

A promising disciple of Josh Billings and A. Head, in East Feliciana, sends the following essay to the Clinton Democrat:

The goat is a numerous animal. He is found in many parts of the inhabitable globe, and also in East Feliciana. He is four footed, and a hen, and never shaves. He lets his beard grow. He can raise up on his hind feet and let himself down easy. He don't mind fences. He can reach over and nibble shrubbery. He butts—he chews rapid. His tail points upward, and a cow's. He is exclusive—he belongs to the hairy-stock-race. He don't miscegenate. He wears his summer clothes all winter. He never squanders fractional currency. He never registered. He don't seem to want to. He never takes in washing. He can't cipher. He don't care for worms. He never slobbers. He is thrifty. He stamps. I like a goat. For why? I wears a goatee.

As this is the season when sore throat is prevalent, we publish the following for the benefit of sufferers: Dissolve a small piece of alum in sage tea, then mix a little honey, or two drams of oak bark in six ounces of boiling water. Use the liquid after it becomes cold.

Colonel Alt Allen, the Treasurer of Kentucky, has adjusted the claims of the State with the authorities at Washington for expenditures for war purposes, and obtained a considerable sum of money.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. R. A. Alexander, of Woodburn, is seriously ill. His physicians entertain the gravest apprehensions unless a favorable change takes place speedily. —Lexington Gazette.

In capturing three of the six convicts who escaped from a guard near the penitentiary on Monday evening, several shots were exchanged between the fleeing convicts and pursuing guards, resulting in the wounding of one of the convicts. Two of the escaped convicts crossed the river at the rifle just below Leestown, the third one remained on the north side of the river, and most probably stole a horse missed the following morning by Mr. James Church, living in the vicinity of where he was last seen. —Frankfort Yeoman, 21st.

Mr. Duncan, of Louisville, the young man who was expelled from Eminence College some months ago, and who, in revenge, assaulted President Giltner, of that institution, while getting upon the cars in Louisville, badly cutting his face, and against whom a suit was brought by the President on the charge of assault and battery, laying his damages at $10,000, came into court a few days since and confessed judgment to that amount, but Mr. Giltner very generously dismissed the case, requiring Young Duncan only to pay the costs of the suit which will be about $1,000. —Judges Stites and Bullitt were the counsel for plaintiff. —1b.

Major John R. Viley was standing, last Saturday, in the store of Warfield & Co., leaning upon the railing which encloses its cellar door, when from some cause the railing flew up, and he fell backwards into the cellar, breaking his right arm at the wrist, and severely bruising his head and body. Both bones of the arm are very badly broken just above, or at the wrist. He fell with such force as to break the bone and force it through his flesh, shirt, and coat sleeve. He is a very heavy man and it is remarkable that the fall did not cause instant death. —Lexington Obs. & Rep., 20th.

The Montgomery (Alabama) "Reconstruction" Convention has adopted a resolution, by a vote of 57 to 33, to change the names of all new counties that were named in glorification of those who participated on the Confederate side in the late war. A resolution was also introduced to change the name of Colbert county to Brownlow, which was tabled by a vote of 76 against 12.

Eighty-three representative districts in Kansas elect twenty-two Democrats, and the remainder Radicals and Independents. Forty counties give the following result: For negro suffrage, 7,591; against it, 16,114; for female suffrage, 6,670; against, 16,362; for disfranchising disloyalists, 11,390; against, 10,268.

Some close observer says that young ladies who are accustomed to read newspapers are sure to possess winning ways, birdlike dispositions, have cultivated minds, never commit suicide, nor sing "No one to love"; are free from gossiping, always select good husbands, and invariably make the sweetest and best wives, and never apply for a divorce.

An old Democrat in Concord, New Hampshire, who died recently, gave strict orders before his decease that none but Democrats should officiate as pall-bearers at his funeral, and that no minister who meddled with politics should conduct religious services over his remains. His wishes were strictly observed by his family.

Goethe, Schiller, Herder, and all the other German authors who died before 1837, are now free booty for freebooters, the copy-right of all of them having just expired.

A country boy who had heard of sailors "heaving anchors" wanted to know if it was seasickness that made them do it.

MANUFACTORY.

HAVING formed a partnership with

WM. TURTON, in the manufacture of Tin Ware, and in the sale of every character of Stove, for the kitchen, parlor and counting room, would take this occasion to return his thanks to the public for their liberal patronage, heretofore, and would most respectfully ask a continuance. The firm will enlarge their business in both departments.

We have purchased a large amount of

FAST WORKING MACHINES.

For the manufacture of tin-ware, and can therefore afford to furnish it at

CHEAPER RATES than heretofore.

The Stoves

We have for sale are of the most celebrated manufacture now in Market, and will be sold to suit buyers and the times.

Mr. Shannon will take exclusive charge of the manufacturing department, in all its branches, and will attend to all jobs entrusted to his care with alacrity.

All work such as

Roofing,

Guttering,

Spouting,

Sheet-Iron and Copper work,

Will be executed in the best possible manner. The best workman, the country affords have been employed for the establishment, and the public are invited to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.
